The Telephone and the Tramp.

A striking instance of the value of the rural telephone to the farmer in adding to the safety of his family during his absence from home developed at New Castle, Ind., recently, says the Orleans (Ind.) Herald. An unknown tramp was terrorizing the neighborhood near New Lisbon. He called at farmhouses and demanded food and drink and when refused threatened to kill the family where he called. The women of the neighborhood became frightened and telephoned to the sheriff. Sheriff Christopher went to the neighborhood and by aid of the telephone system through that section traced the tramp, finally overtook him and placed him in jail.
